1979 vs 2017 - Customers continue to enjoy sitting out on the sidewalk as they have for decades.

Gyro Wrap first opened under the name 'Russo's Gyros' in 1979. It included the first sidewalk cafe in Athens. As other establishments followed suit, sidewalk cafes soon became a downtown trademark. In 1983, after a change of hands, the name was changed to Shipfeifer's Gyro Wrap and later shortened to Gyro Wrap. Since day one, the crew has been striving to maintain high standards of food and service for the generations of students, locals, and visitors who have enjoyed dining at this 'little-hole-in-the-wall'.

WHAT THE HECK IS A SHIPFEIFER?

Shipfeifer is a 16th century English term referring to the owner of a ship who leases (or feifs) it to another. Back then, investors would lease a ship and go to the Mediterranean Sea, where they would pick up food and spices and then head back to England. Upon arrival, the shipfeifer would take a percentage of the Mediterranean cargo as payment. So, if a Shipfeifer opened a cafe, it would probably be a Mediterranean cafe.
